INNITOU

*Woburn Senior High School
Woburn, Massachusetts*

*Good morning yesterday
you wake up and time has slipped away*

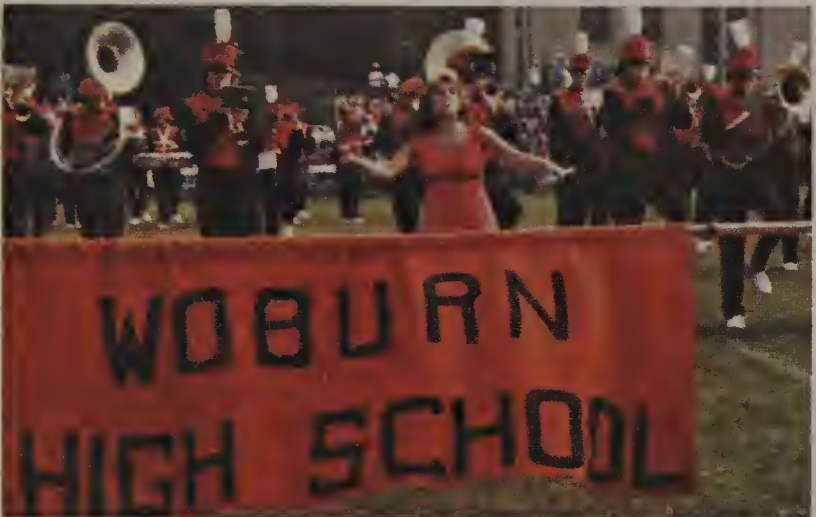

*And suddenly it's hard to find
The memories you've left behind*

The laughter and the tears
The shadows of misty yesteryears

*The good times and the bad you've seen
And all the others in between*

*Reach back for the joy
and the sorrow*

*Put them away in your mind
For memories are time that you borrow*

To spend when you get to tomorrow

*Here comes the setting sun
The seasons are passing one by one*

So gather moments while you may Collect the dreams you dream today

Superintendent's Message

To the Class of 1977:

Congratulations as you complete your Woburn High School education and, best wishes as you begin your future. You are now at an end and at a beginning. Education continues always for each of us. New learnings abound. Use your education to gain wisdom, strength, and a successful life.

Leonardo da Vinci phrased the thought well. "In rivers, the water that you may touch is the last of that which has passed and the first of that which is to come: so with time present."

Yearbook Message

To The Members of The Class of 1977

The year 1977 marks the one hundred twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the Woburn High School.

To be privileged, by your graduation in June 1977, to become an associate of the thousands of alumni of the school is to be reminded of the contributions of your predecessors during the past century and a quarter to the welfare of our community, state, and nation — humble achievements as well as great.

Times like the present, times of great peril, are also times to carry on tasks — and to reconstruct our faith in the present. These are times to reflect that the most significant values of our day have a moral base.

The recognition of the supreme importance of the individual personality is the basic moral and spiritual value in American life.

It has been well said, "Whatever differences exist among individuals should be regarded by the school, not as the basis for the formation of hostile groups but rather as a means to enrich the common life."

We forget often that what counts is not what the individual can't do, but what he can do. We must learn to make use of the ability that each possesses and to disregard the disability.

On the eve of graduation in June 1977 it is our wish that each will contribute his own unique talents to make the last quarter of the twentieth century a happier and more significant life of positive values for all.

Dedication '77

We the class of 1977 dedicate this volume of the Innitou to a pair of outstanding educators, selected by an equal number of votes by the members of the Senior Class.

The first is a teacher whose positive personality and professional assistance has provided total service to the students of Woburn High School in pursuit of academic excellence in the classroom and in the acquisition of skills in speech and drama. Her years of dedicated service, and her tireless effort and perseverance have resulted in many curtain calls. Throughout the years as former director of the Senior Play, and as present director of the One-Act Plays, her outstanding achievements have been attested to by the number of theatrical awards bestowed upon her and her Thespians.

With great respect and gratitude, the Class of 1977 wishes to present our own award to this warm, sincere, dedicated teacher and friend . . .

Dorothea McCausland

Dedication '77

The second individual, himself a graduate of Woburn High School, has distinguished himself in his service to the youth of the city in many capacities. As an instructor in the gym, as a coach on the playing field, and as a trainer in the lockerroom, he has molded the personalities of many former and present students. This firm, but highly personable individual has counselled students with personal, athletic, and school-related problems. He has contributed his time and knowledge to build men and women of strength, courage, and character.

It has been our privilege to have been acquainted with him on an informal, as well as, a professional level; and when we, as adults, recall our youth we will be thankful for the many hours we have shared with . . .

David Sanborn

To an Athlete Dying Young A. E. Housman

The time you won your town the race
We chaired you through the market-place;
Man and boy stood cheering by,
And home we brought you shoulder-high.

Today, the road all runners come,
shoulder-high we bring you home,
And set you at your threshold down,
Townsmen of a stiller town.

Smart lad, to slip betimes away
From fields where glory does not stay
And early though the laurel grows
It withers quicker than the rose.

Eyes the shady night has shut
Cannot see the record cut,

And silence sounds no worse than cheers
After earth has stopped the ears:

Now you will not swell the rout
Of lads that wore their honours out
Runners whom renown outran
And the name died before the man.

So set, before its echoes fade,
The fleet foot on the sill of shade,
And hold to the low lintel up
The still-defended challenge-cup.

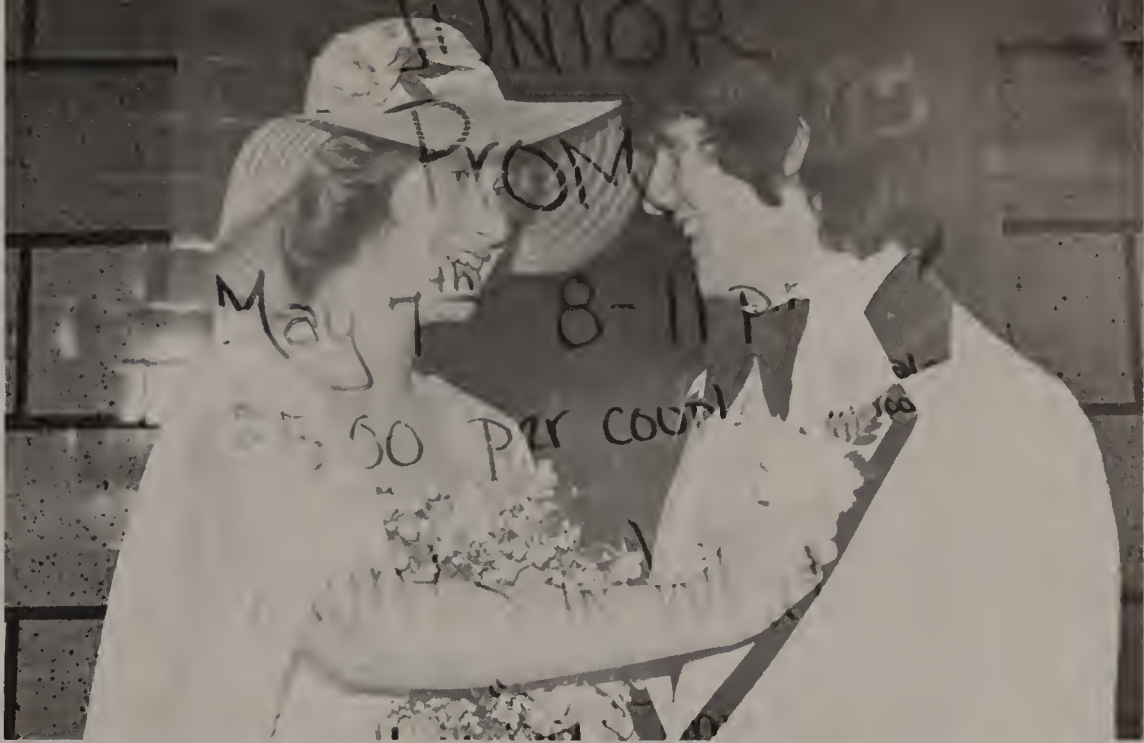

And round that early-laurelled head
Will flock to gaze the strengthless dead,
And find unwithered on its curls
The garland briefer than a girl's.

*Our task, as men — is to find the few principles that will calm the infinite
anguish of free souls*

*We must mend what has been torn apart —
make justice imaginable
again in a world so
obviously unjust,*

Give happiness a meaning once more to peoples poisoned by the misery of the century.

*It is a superhuman task — but superhuman is the term for tasks men
take a long time to accomplish.*
